Celebrating tradition. Defining its evolution.

DePauw University's brand represents the balance between honoring its rich tradition of educational excellence and embracing the need for continuous evolution. Now nearly two centuries old, the DePauw brand can be seen as a throughline of individuals uniting in a "community of communities" to create a whole greater than the sum of its parts.

This brand guide is a strategic and creative touchstone, codifying the university's visual, verbal and experiential elements. Its purpose is to ensure consistent communication of values, mission and unique offerings to prospective and current students, faculty, staff, alumni and the wider community, while fostering a sense of trust, recognition and pride in DePauw.

This iteration of the DePauw brand guide will reaffirm and refresh current brand guidelines. The updated visual and verbal language holds closer the storied history of the institution while creating adaptable and foundational guidelines that help us amplify DePauw's forward trajectory and distinctiveness, moving beyond accolades and accomplishment to impart stories of depth, resonance and meaning.

Brand Messaging

DePauw's key messaging begins with how we position the university in the higher education marketplace – our brand promise. It includes the major pillars that allow us to deliver on that promise as well as core messages and evidence (or proof points) that support our mission.

BRAND PROMISE

DePauw is a top-tier national liberal arts and sciences university that, through a fusion of academic excellence and vast experiential opportunities, develops leaders the world needs.

BRAND PILLARS

Just as pillars or columns hold up a building, brand pillars enable us to deliver on what we promise. Many universities claim the same strengths that DePauw cites, so we must describe them and represent them in distinctive ways.

Four brand pillars of DePauw University

- Tradition of Excellence
- Community of Communities
- Liberal Arts at Its Most Innovative
- The DePauw Network

SUPPORTING MESSAGES AND PROOF POINTS

These support the pillars and connect them in a variety of ways. Doing so consistently over time will shape the DePauw story.

Tradition of Excellence

CORE MESSAGING

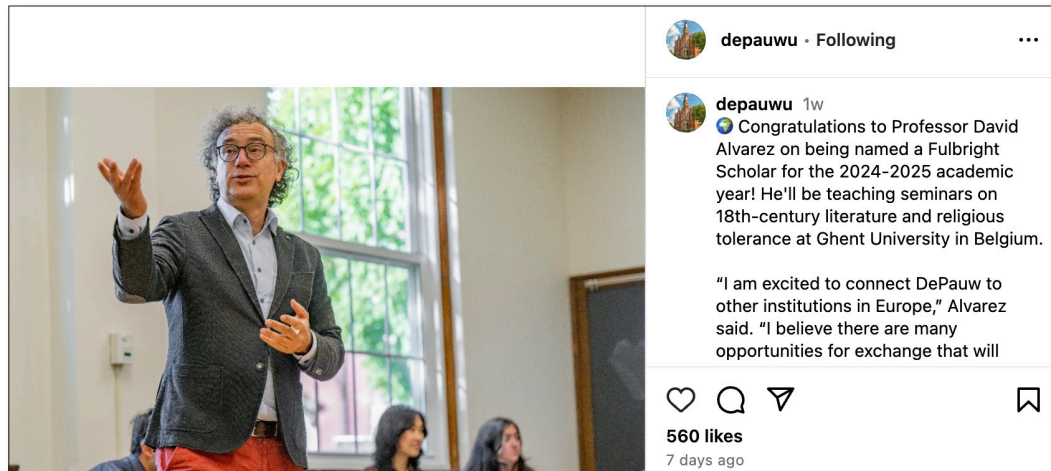

DePauw University stands as a beacon of academic heritage. Our Tradition of Excellence is not only a testament to nearly two centuries of longevity, but also a celebration of our unwavering commitment to providing an exceptional education. Our school and its graduates have a long history of deep respect and recognition from peers and authoritative sources, as well as from top graduate schools and employers nationwide.

Our commitment to excellence extends beyond the confines of the classroom, encompassing cocurricular experiences that shape well-rounded individuals. From academic pursuits to athletic endeavors, fraternity or sorority memberships and participation in fellows programs, our students seamlessly navigate these intentional and relational communities, forging connections that last a lifetime.

Tradition is not static at DePauw; it evolves and adapts to the changing needs of our students. Our Tradition of Excellence is a living legacy, fueling a continuous cycle of achievement, innovation and interconnectedness. Our students carry with them the proud legacy of DePauw's history, creating a dynamic narrative that propels us into the future.

Community of Communities

CORE MESSAGING

DePauw University is a community composed of intentional and relational communities, each offering students access to educational, social and experiential learning opportunities that are staggering in their quality and diversity. Students wear their inclusion in these communities as a badge of honor. And they should.

At other institutions, such communities can create silos that might limit the scope of student experience and decrease interactions between groups and members. Not at DePauw. These communities are permeable, and students move between and among them, often retaining footholds in multiple communities at once. Many students are athletes, members of a fraternity or sorority, and part of a fellows program. What's more, double majoring is prevalent at DePauw, enabling students to strengthen their personal network across academic communities.

The Liberal Arts at Its Most Innovative

CORE MESSAGING

DePauw's intentionality in creating community and space for students to explore their interests pays major dividends as they progress throughout their educational journey. That exploration is the essence of a liberal arts education.

What makes DePauw's brand of liberal arts unique is the seriousness of its demands. It is writing-intensive, rigorous and tied directly to experiential learning opportunities that bring concepts to life in real-world contexts. This process is facilitated by faculty who hold students to the highest of standards.

DePauw students hunger for a good challenge. They embrace the messiness of reconciling differing opinions. And they do so with an openness, empathy and curiosity that create a contagious intellectual energy. It is because their intentions are pure and purposeful: DePauw students want to understand. They want to connect.

With an unwavering commitment to exploration, collaboration and innovation, our faculty represents the best of the liberal arts tradition. The DePauw Network

CORE MESSAGING

A connective thread draws together the powerful DePauw Network. Its strength comes from the weight and brilliance of gold.

Students who thrive at DePauw balance confidence and curiosity, ambition and empathy. Their desire for connection in a community of communities sets them on a trajectory that enables them to accomplish great things. This is the elusive but instantly recognizable quality we call Gold Within. And gold recognizes gold. That's why alumni return to campus to recruit their fellow alumni. It's why they answer cold calls and emails from DePauw students they've never met. It's why alumni are passionate advocates for Old Gold. They've experienced the magic of DePauw, and they want to share it with the world.

depaupu Star Long '23 came to DePauw with plans to major in kinesiology, go to graduate school, and become a physical therapist. And so far, she's right on track. With senior year—and grad school applications—fast approaching, Long has spent the past 10 weeks in one-on-one research with kinesiology professor Brian Wright putting the final touches on her academic resume.

This summer, Long and Wright have used motion capture tools to analyze something familiar to just about anyone in Indiana: a free throw. By measuring kinematic variables—how the shooter's body moves through the motion—they could learn not only how to improve someone's technique, but also how to speed up healing an injury that might affect performance.

"Not only am I learning how to conduct research," Long says, "but I'm getting a head start on my senior thesis. And it will all help with grad school."

When it comes to student-faculty research, Wright says he and his colleagues in kinesiology are able to offer a wide range of research opportunities for students. "My educational background is in cardiopulmonary physiology. But a lot of research experiences that I've had over the years have actually expanded into biomechanics. Having that flexibility has been really great to offer students the opportunity to have a little bit more choice in some of their projects."

Wright says student-faculty research in the department is a team effort, "and that's an important lesson for the student because that's how science works. My goal is always to try to ensure that the project gives the student an opportunity to present at a regional conference, which this project most certainly will."

depaupu Paige Burgess '25 got involved in DePauw Student Government early on as a first-year senator. Tasked with drafting resolutions for a campus community they'd just joined, Burgess started to think about changes that would make an immediate difference.

"I wanted to make something that would be the most impactful to the community, and something that I was personally involved with," Burgess says. "And in that, I thought about how menstrual products aren't free, and that's not very good for equity on campus... I thought I might as well push for a big change."

Their resolution — to make menstrual products free on campus — passed unanimously. Up next, the difficult part: implementing change across campus.

Burgess sought guidance from DePauw Women's Center director Sarah Ryan, having heard of her as a person who could "get things done." Sure enough, Ryan helped Burgess map a path forward, creating a budget, publicity materials, and a plan for what products would be supplied.

The project quickly grew to involve input from many others, including Facilities director Tony Robertson, who helped Burgess figure out how existing bathroom vending machines could be converted to work without coins.

"It was very, very helpful to have all these people, as well as [Vice President for Student Affairs] Alan Hill, who told me, 'Hey, this is something we can make happen. You have to keep pushing for it, keep being passionate about it, and all these people will come together and make it happen,'" Burgess says.

"And many of us from many different corners did eventually make it happen."

Just months after Burgess drafted their first Senate resolution, they had made a lasting impact at DePauw.

EMBRACING UNPREDICTABLE MOMENTS

What excites me about teaching is the opportunity to discuss and learn about the pressing issues that confront us all with curious students who will be changemakers in years to come, in various and different ways. There are unpredictable moments of magic that happen in class — regardless of how you prepare and what material you assign and those are the moments that make teaching so much fun.

Substantively, I like to teach about international security — and challenge students' conceptions about what security means to them. I also like to teach international relations theory because this helps students see that their intuitive takes on many issues and situations are actually formed by some sense of how the world hangs together. Once they see that there are fundamentally different ways to approach international relations, they can then interrogate and analyze their own takes more systematically.

At DePauw, there is a high degree of student participation and students have agency in their own education. It is a genuine give and take, a genuine conversation and a genuinely interdisciplinary approach to the pressing questions of the day.

Social Media Guidelines

OVERVIEW

The dynamic and immediate nature of social media combined with the diverse platforms that contribute to our digital presence allow for more variations of storytelling, from informative to lighthearted. The flexibility of social media is an effective way to highlight the many aspects of the DePauw experience.

In addition to our fundamental guidelines, we provide detailed insights and considerations for a more comprehensive approach.

GUIDELINES

DePauw University's social media – both official and affiliated accounts – are spaces to celebrate, inform, organize and converse. To that end, DePauw community members should participate in social media in ways that express our core values.

- Diversity and inclusion
Social media accounts that speak for campus entities should represent the broadest potential participation in those groups and communicate with external audiences in respectful and welcoming ways.
- Community focus
Social media content isn't exclusive to students. Staff and faculty members are encouraged to use social media to share their daily interactions with students, consistently modeling respectful dialogue.
- Collaboration and curiosity
When possible, highlight the ways everyone is supported in their endeavors. As an academic community, curiosity is vital to both teaching and learning, and DePauw's social media should express this curiosity.
- Impact
When posting to social media, consider the permanence and impact of each post. Typically, story posts are used for less permanent, day-to-day updates, while main feed posts should highlight more significant events and achievements that reflect the university's core values and mission.

TYPES OF ACCOUNTS

Beyond the university's core values, it is expected that all DePauw-affiliated accounts abide by all professional and community standards, as well as any applicable visual identity guidelines. All official and affiliated social media accounts must be associated with a primary account holder at DePauw and registered through a depauw.edu email address.

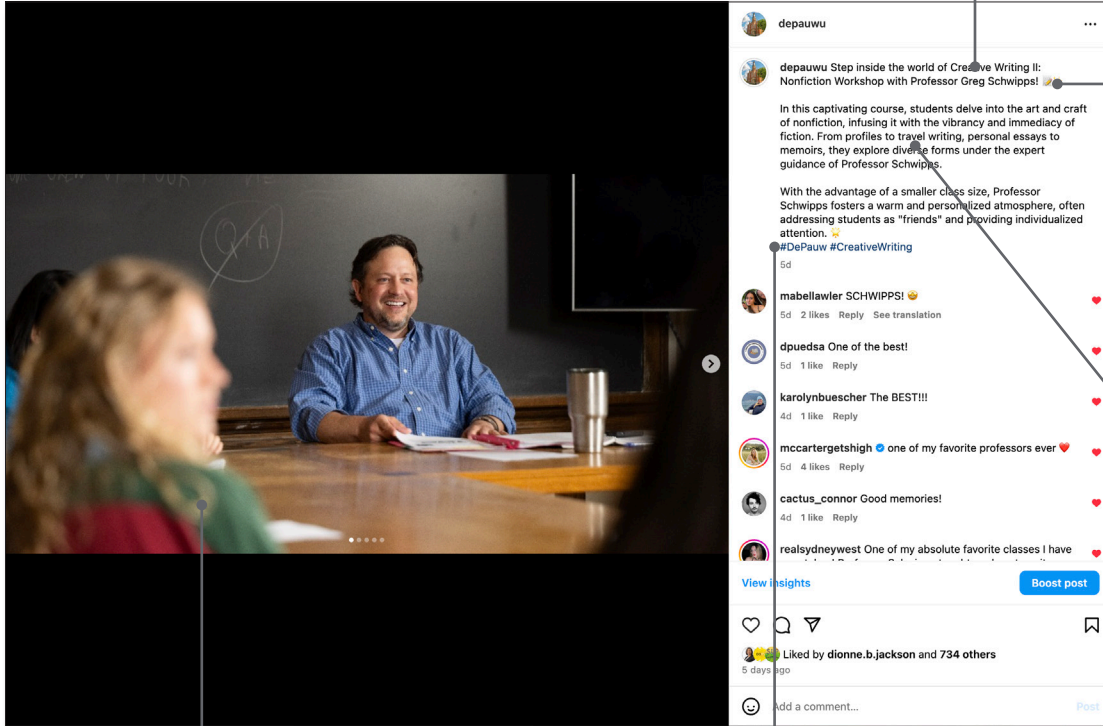

Official: Endorsed by the university, official accounts strictly adhere to university brand guidelines and communicate with a broad audience.

Affiliated: Affiliated accounts are recognized but not formally endorsed by the university and are encouraged to follow brand guidelines, but have more flexibility and variation depending on the group, such as a more targeted (internal) audience. Examples include accounts run by student organizations or specific departments, or clubs, such as @depauwfilmclub, @depauwsustainability, @mapsdepauw, @depauwenglish_.

ATTENTION-GRABBING INTRODUCTION:
The caption begins with an invitation to “step inside the world” of Creative Writing II, capturing the reader’s interest and drawing them into the post.

ELEMENTS OF AN EFFECTIVE SOCIAL POST

USE OF EMOJIS:
Emojis add visual appeal and reinforce the creative and dynamic nature of the course.

CAPTION:
Descriptive and informative, yet relatively concise and light.

CONDUCT POLICY

Comments made by visitors to university social media accounts do not reflect the opinions or policies of the university. Comments that are abusive, profane, violent, obscene, spam; that advocate illegal activity, contain falsehoods or are wildly off-topic; or that libel, incite, threaten or make ad hominem attacks on DePauw students, employees, guests or other individuals will be removed. Messages selling products or promoting commercial, political or other ventures are not permitted.

RAMIFICATIONS OF NONCOMPLIANCE

Noncompliance with these social media guidelines may result in various consequences, including but not limited to:

- Loss of platform access
- Reputational damage
- Legal consequences
- Loss of official status
- Disciplinary action

It is essential for all members of the DePauw community to understand and adhere to these guidelines to maintain a positive, respectful and inclusive online environment. Noncompliance not only jeopardizes the university’s reputation but also undermines the values we uphold as an academic institution.

IMAGERY: Use of images that align with brand guidelines.

HASHTAGS: The use of relevant hashtags like #DePauw and #CreativeWriting increases the visibility of the post and connects it to broader conversations within the DePauw and creative writing communities.

Website Standards and Guidelines

OVERVIEW

This section outlines the standards and guidelines for the development, design and maintenance of the university website. These standards ensure consistency, ADA accessibility and a user-friendly experience while promoting the university's brand message, image and mission.

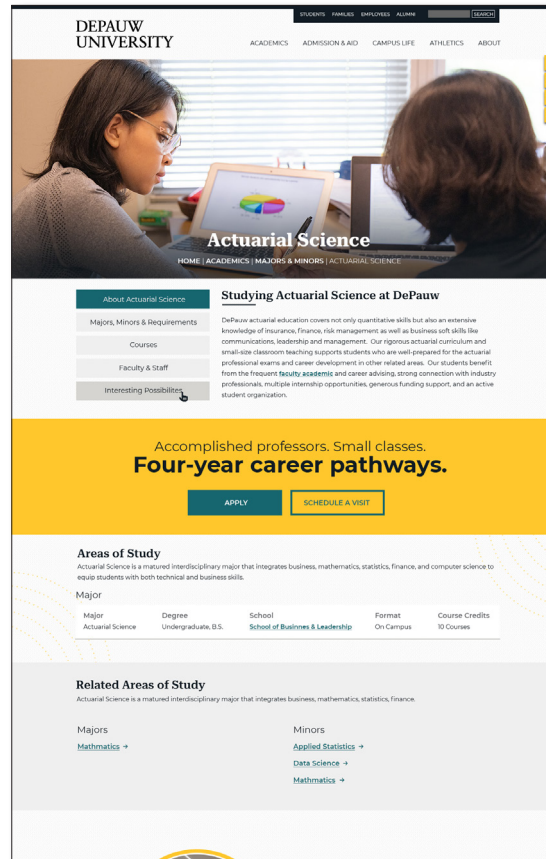

The depauw.edu site is a collaborative endeavor led by the communications and marketing team. New visitors, namely prospective students, are a key audience – a streamlined, intuitive admissions site ensures they can find timely and relevant information. Other user-audiences served by depauw.edu include current students, faculty, staff, athletics and alumni.

DEVELOPMENT

The depauw.edu website uses a content management platform customized for the university's use. It includes content modules built with a set of visually consistent and spatially flexible templates for use by approved content partners. Training modules are available with support from the DePauw Communications and Marketing web team.

The depauw.edu site hosts focused content for admissions, current students, faculty and staff, human resources, the alumni office and athletics and interacts with platforms some of these entities maintain. To maintain site speed, performance and usability, the site is updated and streamlined on a rolling basis.

For expository writing (e.g., blogs), archival content, and episodic (podcasts, annual shows) content, content developers should consider supplementary web resources that might include scholarship.depauw.edu, Google Sites or WordPress. UNIVERSITY POLICY ON AI IN COMMUNICATIONS AND MARKETING

Artificial intelligence (AI) offers unprecedented opportunities for creativity and efficiency. Recognizing these capabilities, we are committed to leveraging AI in a manner that upholds our standards of authenticity, transparency and ethical practice. The following policy outlines the permissible and prohibited uses of AI in university communications, ensuring our community remains accurately and responsibly represented.

ETHICAL CONSIDERATIONS

Adherence to academic integrity: The use of AI must reflect our overarching principles of academic integrity and the ethical use of technology.

Avoiding bias: AI-generated imagery should not perpetuate biases or misrepresentations, especially concerning protected characteristics such as race, gender and age.

This policy is designed to embrace the potential of AI as a tool for innovation and creativity, while also safeguarding our integrity, authenticity and ethical standards. It will be subject to ongoing evaluation to remain aligned with the evolving landscape of AI technology and its applications.

USE OF AI IN WRITING

Ethical use of AI involves transparent and accountable practices that enhance rather than diminish human interactions. AI can streamline administrative tasks, personalize communications and analyze data for strategic decision-making. However, it must be monitored and evaluated at every step to mitigate unintended consequences and uphold ethical standards. AI can enrich our engagement with DePauw communications. It can optimize resource allocation. And it can foster a collaborative approach to communication and marketing. It is up to its users to make this a reality. A few guidelines:

- Maintain transparency: Clearly disclose when AI tools are used to generate or significantly assist in writing content. This ensures honesty and trust with your audience.
- Guard against bias: Regularly audit AI-generated content to identify and mitigate any biases that may inadvertently surface based on training data or algorithms.
- Prioritize authenticity: Use AI as a tool to enhance creativity and efficiency, but always ensure that the final output aligns with DePauw's values and voice.
- Respect privacy: Safeguard sensitive information and adhere to data protection regulations when collecting, storing or analyzing data using AI technologies.
- Human oversight is essential: Even with AI assistance, maintain human editors and reviewers to ensure accuracy, relevance and appropriateness of content, particularly in nuanced or sensitive communications.

PROHIBITED USES OF AI IN WRITING:

- Plagiarism and academic integrity: Using AI to generate or modify content that could be considered plagiarism, such as copying directly from sources without attribution or paraphrasing without proper citation.
- Misrepresentation: Creating content that falsely represents the university or its members, misleads the public or presents inaccurate information.
- Manipulation of information: Using AI to spread misinformation or false propaganda that could harm the university's reputation or mislead the community.
- Violating privacy: Employing AI tools that compromise the privacy of students, faculty, staff or other stakeholders by collecting or analyzing personal data without consent or in violation of privacy laws.
- Discriminatory practices: Generating content that perpetuates or amplifies biases based on race, gender, ethnicity, religion or other protected characteristics, whether intentionally or unintentionally.
- Automated spam or unsolicited communication: Using AI to send mass unsolicited emails, messages or posts that could be perceived as spam or intrusive.
- Noncompliance with regulations: Using AI in ways that do not comply with legal regulations, such as copyright laws, data protection regulations (e.g., GDPR) or institutional policies.
- Overreliance on AI: Allowing AI to fully replace human judgment and creativity in writing.

AI USAGE IN PHOTOGRAPHY

- Minor editing and retouching: The use of AI tools, including those available in Adobe Creative Cloud, is authorized for minor editing and retouching of original photographs and images. This includes adjustments to lighting, color correction and removing minor imperfections.
- Creative process assistance: AI tools may serve as aids in generating ideas, concepts or drafts, which should then be refined through conventional artistic methods.
- Conceptual and illustrative graphics: When genuine photographs are not available, AI may be utilized to create conceptual, illustrative or abstract graphics that support the university's communications goals, provided these do not aim to depict realistic university scenes or events.

PROHIBITED AI USAGE IN PHOTOGRAPHY

- Misrepresentation of AI-generated images: AI-generated images must not be presented as genuine photographs representing the university, its community, events or experiences.
- Use of stock or entirely AI-generated images: Do not use stock AI-generated images or those created entirely by AI to depict the university's community, campus scenes or events.
- Autonomous generation of visual assets: AI tools must not be used to autonomously generate final visual assets. All AI-assisted creations require human oversight, judgment and creative input.
- Transparency and citation documentation: Any application of AI tools beyond basic editing must be documented and cited in project files, including metadata, ensuring traceability and accountability.
- Disclosure: Any published use of AI-generated or AI-assisted imagery must include a disclaimer, e.g., "AI-generated content" or "Created with the assistance of AI tools," to maintain transparency with our audience.

Brand Elements

Primary Logo

OVERVIEW

Logos, marks or other iconic symbols are not the sole elements of the DePauw brand, but they are the visual extension and most easily recognized. Consistent use of color, font and marks helps avoid confusion and establishes strong university identity.

The primary logo for DePauw University exemplifies the brand tone of the institution: bold, curious, confident, smart.

Three versions of logo type allow flexibility of use.

Note: As a result of our brand repositioning, the East College logo will no longer be used. Refresh all electronic materials with the updated primary logo. Existing inventory of materials printed with the East College logo, including branded merchandise, should be depleted before ordering replacement merchandise with the updated logo.

Fonts

OVERVIEW

The DePauw identity system includes specific fonts that are to be used on all university publications. Under no circumstances should a designer employ fonts other than those specified here. Questions should be directed to the Office of Communications and Marketing.

These typefaces have been selected to provide sufficient flexibility for a range of communications while maintaining a coherent and consistent DePauw look. They complement the DePauw logo system, and each font family offers a wide range of weights and style choices, including italics, bold, etc., to allow for numerous design options.

The brand system includes the following typefaces:

PRIMARY

Adobe Caslon
Futura Std

SECONDARY AND WEB FONTS

Roboto Serif
Montserrat

SYSTEM DEFAULT

Use these typefaces in instances when Adobe Caslon and Futura Std are not available, such as in business papers or emails.

Times, Times New Roman

University Stationery

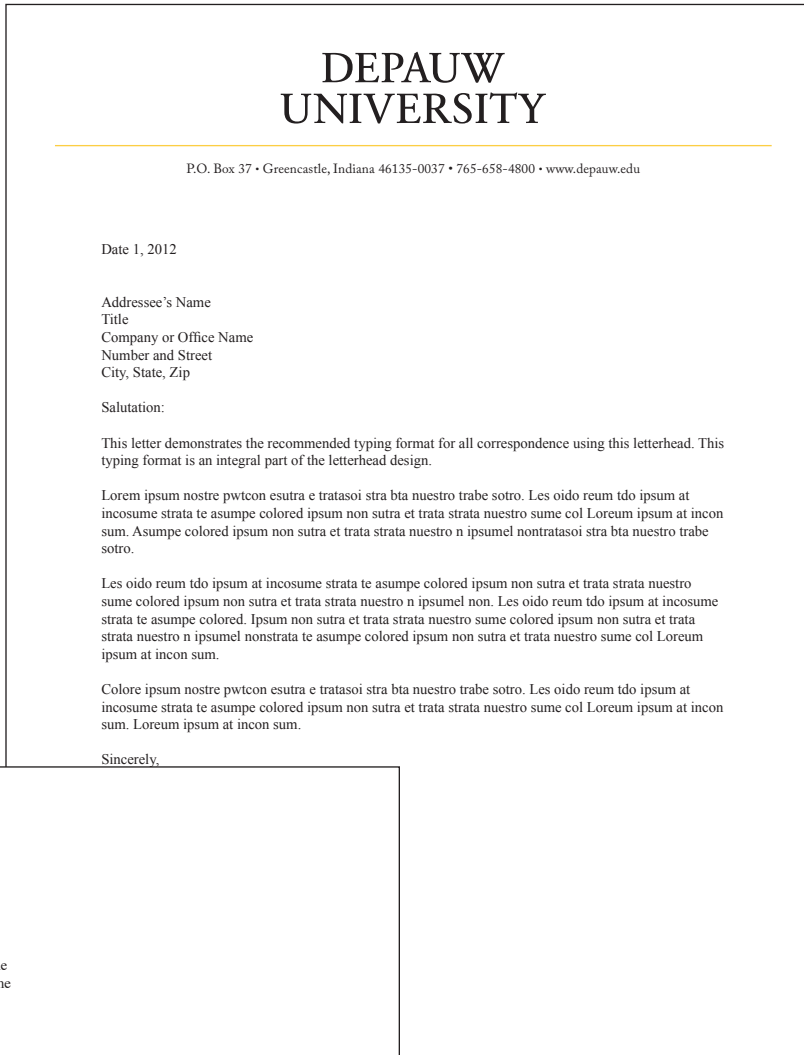

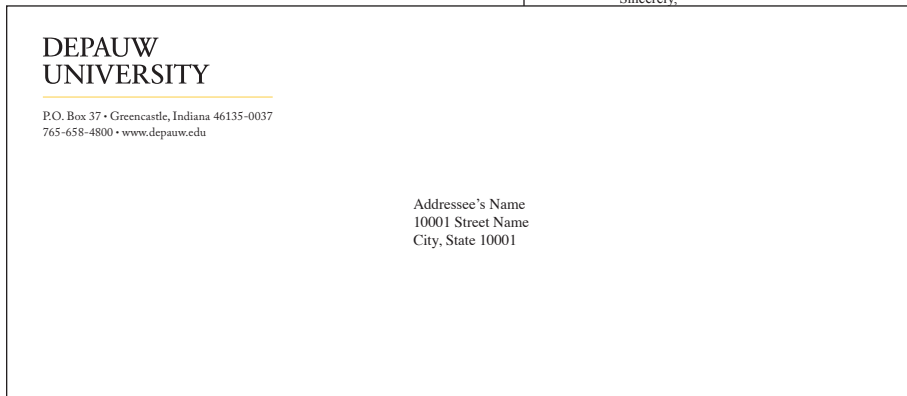

As a part of the university's effort to present a unified image to the public, stationery and business cards use a consistent design and logo.

DePauw stationery follows the format at right, printed with the center-aligned logo in black with a gold (PMS 141 U) rule on 70# Accent opaque white text. Business cards are printed on 100# cover.

Business Card
3.5" x 2"

#10 envelope
9.5 x 4.125"

Letterhead
8.5" x 11"

ORDERING STATIONERY

Departments and offices still using letterhead, envelopes and business cards with the East College logo should use up remaining stock of those items prior to ordering new stock.

Stationery for new programs may be requested through the university storeroom. Business cards for new or recently promoted faculty and staff, contact your department/divisional administrative assistant.

BRANDED MERCHANDISE

The DePauw brand is also reflected in the quality of paper and materials that carry the logo or represent the institution. When placing orders for print materials or branded merchandise, please follow these recommendations:

- For print materials, paper should be high quality. Communications and Marketing recommends 80# Cougar text and/or cover.
- Apparel and merchandise imprinted with the DePauw logo need to be of high quality. The least expensive option will likely not present or wear well over time. Please give careful consideration to the quality of the items you choose and their likely use.
- When possible, avoid dating items.

Examples of incorrect use for branded merchandise

- Inexpensive or disposable items, such as plastic frisbees, chip clips, wristbands, plastic cups, etc.
- Poor-quality apparel.
- Flimsy or unprofessional signage.
- Any substrate that is of inexpensive or poor quality.

EMAIL SIGNATURES

DePauw University does not have a standardized email signature format, but recommends the following to keep your signature professional and on brand:

- Fonts: Choose an appropriate font, such as Montserrat or Roboto Serif. Arial, Tahoma and Verdana are considered web-safe, and are appropriate for screens. Using font sizes smaller than 9 point is not recommended.
- Pronouns: It is appropriate to include pronouns, if you like, but the decision is up to each individual.
- Logo: Use one of the current DePauw logos shown on page 32. Be sure to use a high-resolution file for best legibility.

THINGS TO AVOID

- Quotations: Avoid quotes. They clutter the signature block and create a risk of the quote being inappropriate or offensive for a particular audience, even if unintentionally so.
- Personal info: Do not include an image of your signature as this can put your personal info at risk. Avoid including other personal information, such as your home address, personal phone number, personal website or non-DePauw email address.
- Boilerplate language and legal statements: Avoid including boilerplate language, such as equal opportunity/affirmative action statements, and legal statements, such as confidentiality disclaimers. These statements can be found on relevant DePauw web pages, such as Human Resources, and are not also needed in email signatures.
